

Schools With the Highest Percentage of Women Engineering Graduates*

UNEVEN GROWTH

The proportion of full-time women undergraduates ticked slightly upward in 2008 after holding at a 10-year low of 17.5 percent over the past three years. The share of bachelor's degrees awarded to women has declined steadily since reaching 20.9 percent in 2002. Although engineering bachelor's degrees have increased by 11 percent during this time, the number awarded to women has fallen by 5.2 percent. COMPILED BY MICHAEL GIBBONS

BACHELOR'S DEGREES AWARDED, 2007-08

* Minimum of 50 B.S. degrees awarded. 258 schools fit this criterion.

FRESHMEN
SOPHOMORES
JUNIORS
SENIORS*
TOTAL

WOMEN UNDERGRADUATE ENROLLMENT, FALL 2008